Finca La Emperatriz -The Empress's Estate- is an historic vineyard in Baños de Rioja that once belonged to the last Empress of France, Eugenia de Montijo. The wife of Napoleon III - the architect of Bordeaux's classification in Crus - made wines on this estate in the 19th century, the quality of which was recognised in the wine competition at the Universal Exhibition of 1878.

In 1996 the Hernáiz family took over this spectacular vineyard, and after four years dedicated to viticulture, Eduardo and Víctor Hernáiz decided to close the circle by making their own wines.

Since then, the idea has always been to make sublime wines, following a path marked by the utmost respect for the countryside, tradition and craftsmanship with the sole purpose of recovering the elegance and classicism of fine wines of Rioja Alta.
